All the red-bordered cards are food cards

TAKEOUT

HOW TO PLAY

Begin by dealing each player 5 cards. Leave the rest of the cards in a facedown stack on the table. This draw pile is the Kitchen.

Turn the top food card face up, and place it next to the Kitchen/draw deck. (If the top card isn't food, draw until you get a red food card, then shuffle those action cards back into the deck.) This food is on the Table now.

Each turn has 3 parts, Draw, Play, Discard.

Draw - On your turn, first take a card from either the Kitchen or the Table. If your turn starts and you don't have any cards, begin by drawing one from from the Kitchen, but don't be rude, give a card to each other player as well! Then you can begin your turn with either drawing from the Table or Kitchen.

Play - On each turn, you can play a food, an action or both. You play a food card from your hand into your meal (placing it, face up, on the table in front of you). You can have duplicates of a flavor in your meal, but you'll need six different tastes to win. You play an action card by following the directions on the card. Action cards are discarded after use. You can play your food and action in either order, but you must do at least one on your turn, even if it's not particularly advantageous to do so.

Discard - At the end of your turn, discard one card from your hand. Food cards go face-up on the Table, on top of the previous one, and action cards are discarded. If you've played the last card in your hand, just skip the discard part.

The winner is the first person to have something of each flavor (sweet, sour, salty, spicy and bitter) and something cold in their meal.

FUWUYUAN 服务员

You shout for the waiter or waitress to order more food. Don't be selfish, deal one card to each player before taking two for yourself. Action card

CHOPSTICK SKILLS 筷子

The Chinese word for chopsticks means quick, so quickly help yourself to one of your friends' foods with your superior chopsticks skills. Choose any dish from a friend's meal, and play it immediately in your own meal.

Action card

DABAO 打包

This literally means make a bag, this is how you can get your food to go. Take a card from an opponent's meal and have it wrapped up to go... by putting it on the bottom of the kitchen/draw deck.

Action card

GANBEI 干杯

Ganbei, or drain your glass, is a common toast. In this case, though, it means a swap with your drunken friend. Trade one card of your choice from your meal with one card of your choice from your drunken friend's meal.

CHINESE PHRASEBOOK

You don't speak Chinese, you just speak it better than your tablemates. Look through the table cards, find a dish you'd like and put it in your meal. Those hours of studying have paid off!

Action card

MEI YOU 没有

Literally means not have. The restaurant is out of something. Food card. Or more like a sorry-we-don't-have-this-food card.
